History of Hospitality Education in India

Hotel Management education was not available in India till 1954. During 1954, "All India Women Council, Bombay" under the guidance of Ms. Lilavati Munshi (who was union food and Agriculture Minister from 1950-52 and Governor of UP from 1952 to 1957 and the founder of famous Bhartiya Vidya Bhawan in 1938) started one Catering College at Bombay (popularly known as Bombay Catering College) to run 6 months certificate level program on mainly 'Cookery and nutrition' specially for house wives. During 1959 they got technical help from European Hotel Association to run other short program in Hospitality. In 1962 the Government of Maharashtra took over the Institute and started financial support to the Institute to run structured diploma and certificate level program under Maharashtra State Technical Board. The Institute then renamed as Institute of Hotel Management Catering Technology and Applied Nutrition and registered as a trust under Bombay Charity Commissioner under the relevant section of the act.

On the same year, i.e. in 1962, the Department of Food, Ministry of Agriculture, Government of India opened an Institute of Hotel Management Catering Technology and Applied Nutrition at Pusa as a registered society under the Societies registration act 1860 to run diploma and certificate level program under Delhi board of Technical Education.

During 1963 and 1964, the Dept. of Food, Ministry of Agriculture, Govt. of India opened two more similar Institute at Calcutta and Madras to run Diploma and Certificate level program under the respective State Technical Board.

Between 1972 and 1978 the Dept. of Food, Ministry of Agriculture, Govt. of India further opened 14 food Craft Institutes to run only craft level program under respective State Technical Board for the candidates with 8th to 10th class pass. During 1978-79 Dept. of Food, Ministry of Agriculture, Govt. of India upgraded all the 14 Food craft Institutes as Institute of Hotel Management Catering Technology and Applied Nutrition and at the same time also opened a new Institute of Hotel Management Catering Technology and Applied Nutrition at Srinagar. In the same year a proposal was also sent to the Government of Maharashtra to take over the IHMCTAN, Bombay by the Govt. of India. The proposal was in principally approved by the Government of Maharashtra and finally handed over to the Dept. of Food, Ministry of Agriculture, Government of India in 1982.

Till such time all the IHMCTAN use to run Diploma and Craft level program under the respective State Technical Board, having different standard. To bring quality and standard in the Hospitality education in India, the Dept. of Food, Ministry of Agriculture, Govt. of India during 1982 established National Council for Hotel Management and Catering Technology. Main mandate of the NCHMCT was to academically control the Institutes with common curriculum, common examination and to prescribe standard of infrastructure, standard of admission system etc.

In the year 1984, the Govt. of India realized that Hospitality education should be the mandate of Ministry of Tourism and as such the NCHMCT along with all the IHMCTAN transferred to Ministry of tourism during 1984.

The Council centrally regulates academics in the field of hospitality and hotel administration through its affiliated Institutes of Hotel Management spread all over the country. In addition to Diploma, an UG level program started in 2002 in all the IHMs and PG level program started in 2005 in 5 IHMs.

Now, the Council offers total of 11 academic programs from Masters and Bachelors Degree Programs in Hospitality as well as PG Diploma, Diploma Craft Courses. Research in the field of Hospitality has also been started from 2017-18.

Under NCHMCT's umbrella, presently total 21 Central Institutes of Hotel Management, 22 State Government Institutes of Hotel Management, 1 Public Sector Undertaking Institute of Hotel Management and 14 Private Institutes of Hotel Management are affiliated. 10 Food Craft Institutes are also affiliated to NCHMCT which offer Diploma programs in specific operational areas. All Institutes under NCHMCT follow standardized course curricula prescribed by the Council for different professional programs and follow international standards and practices.

Quality of education and training provided by the Institutes help students to emerge as professionally qualified personnel for hospitality and other allied service sectors. Its alumni from affiliated Institutes occupy key positions in hospitality industry as well as in teaching institutions both in India and abroad.

HOSPITALITY AS A CAREER

The Ministry of Tourism, Government of India in its sustained effort continues to strengthen tourism infrastructure, destinations and human resource development. It is today marketing India as a brand in high value destinations of the world which has resulted in foreign exchange earning of over Rs.17049 crores. The Hospitality Industry has demonstrated a steady pattern of growth over the past 40 years. The number of restaurants, fast food chains and hotels continues to increase, together with the number of meals eaten out of home by each person/family today. By 2017 end, an estimated 50,000 hotel rooms are likely to be added, besides new establishments in the F&B restaurant business for which an estimated 754,000 trained manpower would be required. The country today produces less than 20,000 trained manpower from National Council for Hotel Management affiliated institutes, AICTE, National Universities and. The potential for trained and skilled manpower in hospitality is thus immense.

In the organized sector, hospitality education is 50 years old when the first institute of hotel management was established at Mumbai in 1959. Today, the National Council for Hotel Management & Catering Technology, under the Ministry of Tourism, has a largest network of Hotel Management Institutes involving 21 at Central Government level, 22 at State level and 14 in the private sector, besides 10 institutes that impart Craft level hospitality training.

Prominent hotel chain like the Oberoi Group, ITC hotels, Taj Group, ITDC etc. employ NCHMCT graduates as their operation in management staff. Leading hotel chains are headed today by NCHMCT alumni. Celebrity Chefs like Padma Shree Sanjeev Kapoor have passed from NCHMCT affiliated institute.

In the fast expanding hospitality industry, young graduates are recruited through campus interviews at operations and management level by top hotel and F&B chains. Allied sector, like retail, banking, insurance, airlines, cruise liners also pick up hotel management graduates for suitable jobs. Several graduates travel overseas for jobs, higher education and others start their own business. In the fast paced hospitality industry, the young professionals meet and greet guests not only from India but from the world over. Salaries and working conditions match the best there is to offer with scope for fast professional growth.

The 3-year graduate hospitality program of the NCHMCT is much sought after because it guarantees low investment with high returns. The curriculum is fully rounded to cover latest aspects of knowledge, skill and management. Today, the traditional careers are being dispelled and the young are taking on more exciting and rewarding careers like Hotel Management.
